

Glenn T. Rieke

The Rieke Corporation has grown from a one-man operation in its founder's garage into the world's leading manufacturer of closures, pour spouts and dispensing equipment for consumer and industrial containers. Glenn became a draftsman for the company his father founded.

Glenn expanded into other facets of the business, eventually becoming president of the company in 1947, and in 1965 he was named chairman of the board. Under Glenn Rieke's helm of leadership, the Rieke Corporation established licensing to handle Rieke products in France, Australia, Argentina and Mexico. Further diversification took place in 1970 when Rieke acquired Oren-Van Aman. Glenn retired in 1978.